

The March 2003 issue of Cosmopolitan features Patti's advice on catching that handsome stranger's eye.
www.pattiwood.net

...eye your guy from across the room.

You spy him in the distance. A droolworthy dude whom you'd like to throw to the floor and have your way with...but okay, maybe you'd like to meet him first. "Sweep your gaze across his field of vision a few times until he catches your eye," says Patti Wood, a body-language expert and author of People Savvy. "Eyes are designed to go toward even the slightest movement, so he'll be naturally drawn to your roving glances even though the action is subtle." Another coy approach to use when your target is at close range (3 to 4 feet): Tilt your head in his direction and look up, then down quickly. There's a lot to be said for shy-girl sultriness. Yowza!

