Will Their Love Last? Us Asks the Experts

Patti Wood

Us Weekly body-language expert

"In the photo above, rather than resting her hand on top of his, Trista has locked her thumb: That shows intimacy. The look of pleasure on her face appears to be real. In the top photo (inset), they are facing each other – that shows they are in sync. However, after looking at several photos, I see that she has a high need for the limelight, but Ryan is more shy; if they stay out of it, it will bode well for them."

"For a relationship to endure, both partners have to have the same energy level. I'm very sure this is not going to last. I sense with Trista that she's someone who likes to have control; she's attracted to a weaker man. It's very hard to find someone who matches your energy level on TV. In real life, relationships are much more serious." MARA REINSTEIN
